

Do you want to make science fiction become reality? Do you have a passion for game development? Do you think Second Life is just the start of something really big? If you answered yes to any of these questions, you should come work on Twinity, the real world/virtual world MMO mash-up from the folks at Metaversum.

Metaversum is one the most exciting and ambitious start-up companies in Germany, with hip offices in a prime riverbank location in the middle of Berlin.

To strengthen our team in Berlin we are looking for a

Product Marketing Manager

Do you know all there is to know about virtual worlds? Do you jump into every new MMO beta you can find? If you do, we want you to join us in helping to keep Twinity the most innovative and interesting virtual world there is.

Your responsibilities

- Responsible for managing feature planning of Twinity
- Work with marketing and product development to specify new features and improve existing ones
- Prepare presentations for the management team to win their support for new features. Moderate the discussions
- Focus on quality, usability, look & feel, simplicity and overall coherence of the product
- Setup measures to learn as much as possible from our users
- Collect and use experience from our beta customers and competitors
- Together with the development lead create the overall feature and release plan
- Make sure the features are implemented to our high quality standards
- Lead a small international team

Your profile

- Strong interest in gaming and virtual worlds
- Degree in either engineering or business studies
- At least three years of relevant job experience
- Self dependent, goal-oriented working manner
- Analytical and conceptual thinking is your strength
- Highly motivated, team-oriented, flexible and able to work under pressure
- Ideally experience with software development and/or game production

Twinity will take the current state of the virtual world and turn it upside down to produce something you never imagined before. Join us, and help shape the future of the virtual world. Please send your application to jobs@metaversum.com

Metaversum GmbH
Rungestrasse 20
10179 Berlin
jobs@metaversum.com