

Do you want to change the world? Do you have a passion for game development? Do you think Second Life is just the start of something really big? If you answered yes to any of these questions, you should come work on Twinity, the real world/virtual world MMO mash-up from the folks at Metaversum.

Metaversum is one the most exciting and ambitious start-up companies in Germany, with hip offices in a prime riverbank location in the middle of Berlin.

Have you ever herded cats? We are looking for a

Rollout Manager

You will work in close collaboration with product development to bring a very ambitious product to market and later prepare the international rollout. For that we need someone with ambition and ability to deliver.

Your responsibilities

- Plan and implement the rollout of the Twinity platform
- Coordinate release across all departments (R&D, QA, support, content production, marketing, legal)
- Ensure our high quality standards are met by the product
- Coordinate content production by outsourced suppliers
- Solve technical and organisational problems during rollout swiftly
- Lead project teams

Your profile

- Knowledge in game-development, ideally MMO
- Knowledge in project and/or product management
- A technical background, ideally some programming experience
- Self dependent and goal-oriented working manner
- Highly motivated, team-oriented, flexible and able to work under pressure
- Fluent in English

Twinity will take the current state of the virtual world and turn it upside down to produce something you never imagined before. Join us, and help shape the future of the virtual world. Please send your application to jobs@metaversum.com

Metaversum GmbH
Rungestrasse 20
10179 Berlin
jobs@metaversum.com